

Artist's Statement

Ellen Lindner says, "I consider making art to be an adventure: one filled with challenges, joys, frustrations, and surges of Adrenalin."

I use fabric the way a painter uses paint: shaping and placing to create my compositions. The fabric itself is special, since I've dyed and printed it myself.

A self-taught artist, I didn't realize I could create art until I was middle-aged. Reading, observation, and trial and error were my teachers, as I explored this new arena. Today, I continue to play and experiment, finding these to be vital components of my artistic adventures.

Bio

A former F.I.T. flight instructor, Ellen didn't try her hand at art until her forties. After learning the basics, she quickly began to experiment, and over the course of years, developed her own fabric collage technique.

She often participates in juried shows and has won quite a few awards throughout the country.

Now using her teaching skills at a lower altitude, she teaches online and in person, as well as via her episodes on Quilting Arts (PBS.) Ellen has also written two eBooks and several articles.

AdventureQuilter.com

